The Daily News will be delivered by carrier anywhere in Amarillo, or by mail outside of the city, for $5.00 a year, or 50c a month, in advance.

The "dove of peace" which has been hovering over Europe turned out to be a buzzard.

Instead of Mexico's affair being the real show it seems to have been only a sort of curtain raiser.

Czar Nick says he will lead his own forces in the war. The old boy is likely to find himself between two fires.

"Me und Gott," as Kaiser William sacrilegiously would have had it, is likely to experience an elimination of the "Me."

The "divine right" proposition of the royal reign idea is liable to be shot full of holes within the course of a few weeks.

If the signs of the times read aright, the geographies of the world will be subject to revision within the next few months.

That big bunch of Americans stranded in Europe will learn the full significance and beauty of the song: "There's no place like home."

With all the nations of Europe praying for success to their arms the Lord must be in a sort of quandary and will likely let them fight it out.

It now looks as though Carranza may have use for that $40,000 Pullman soon, providing he can get an engine to pull it out of the reach of danger.

"Broke der Kaiser" will probably be the revised salute for his German strenuousness after the present unpleasantness. Bill is spending 12 millions a day.

Even the English suffragette activity pales into nothingness in the presence of the European war. Madam Pankhurst must be boiling with rage over the Kaiser's ungallant actions.

Recent developments in Europe have made it essential that the U. S. Congress be in session. The 20c mileage has also been saved by the embargo on vacations for congressmen and senators.

In London they train nurses to take care of dogs while one in eight of the English population is fed by the government to prevent starvation. British civilization seems to be making wonderful strides in behalf of dogs.

The magnificent Peace Palace at The Hague would make an excellent structure to add to the exhibit buildings of the Panhandle State Fair. Wonder if we couldn't interest the nations to move it over here for us, since they have no use for it.

A careful estimate of the cost of a general European war is said to be $56,000,000 a day. In thirty days the total will look like $1,680,000,000, which it would require fifty years to pay for in ordinary manner. How long do you think the powers can stand expenses?

Russia was the "big man of Europe" until the little Jap took a fall out of him and pulled the bear's dangerous tusks. The Kaiser has now jumped into the ring and is taking on the whole bunch of European fighting men at once. To a man up a tree it looks like a safe bet that Bill is taking in too much territory.

"On to Berlin!" the rabble shouted in the streets of Paris. Their forefathers fed on rats while the Prussians shelled the walls of the French capital in the seventies. No wonder they would like to rush on to Berlin to return past favors, but the road along the weary way would likely prove long and somewhat rocky.

Fortunately the United States has adhered strictly to at least one of the wholesome doctrines of the fathers—no entangling alliances with other nations. We don't have to fight because some other country is mixed up in war.—Kansas City Journal. Yet the Journal was one of the loudest-mouthed standpats G. O. P. sheets which condemned the administration for refraining from making war on Mexico. Consistency is a jewel not kept in treasure house of the standpat press.

AMERICA SETS A NOBLE EXAMPLE

In The Chronicle of Wednesday there appeared a communication from Mexico which was received by a well known Houston citizen from a friend now in the signal corps at Vera Cruz, and it was a communication which conveys a meaning far deeper and more important than a casual reading might suggest.

The fact that it came at a time coincident with the beginning of a wholly unjustifiable war of conquest and oppression waged by a strong power against a weaker one in Europe presents a contrast which is most significant and to the United States most creditable, says the Houston Chronicle.

A little more than three months ago the United States army put foot on Mexican soil and took possession of a Mexican city. That army might now have been in the City of Mexico had the president, its commander in chief, so ordered. If that part of the army now at Vera Cruz had not sufficient, enough more men could have been sent to have wiped out the armies of Villa and Huerta and Carranza and Zapata and all the rest of the semi-bandits who are ravaging unhappy Mexico. Every man knows this is true.

This government had and has the money, the guns and the men to conquer Mexico in half the time the revolution has been raging there, and it is such a land as offers great temptation to any nation bent on conquest and extension of territory and with the ability to accomplish that end; but this great nation has demonstrated its greatness by proving that it believes in peace and justice, not in war and conquest.

The ignorant Mexican confidently expected not only that their property would be destroyed but that their lives would be taken. They expected to see a carnival of bloodshed and looting. For generations that has been their only conception of war. From the days of Cortez and from the time that "Guatemozin smiled on burning coals" the victorious entry of an army into their territory has meant death and destruction. But what have they seen since April 21?

They have seen a foul, filthy commercial city made clean; property undisturbed; lives of the people protected; dungeons doors thrown open and shrunken, pale, emaciated political prisoners set free, business activity revived, and friendly, helping American hands extended to them—hands which they thought were going to smite them even unto death.

The Mexicans who shrank in terror at the mention of the hated "Gringos" find that they came not on a mission of murder but of mercy; not to lay waste but to build up; not to take but to give; not to harm but to help; not to oppress but to make free.

Such a conception of an invader of their territory is contrary to all their history and tradition. They are so amazed they are unwilling to credit their own senses, but stand silent in wonder, recognizing that they are at the mercy of the invader, yet he does them no ill. He has proved that he is their friend, not their enemy; their deliverer, not their oppressor.

The soldiers they see in khaki and under the stars and stripes are making good the word of the president of this great nation that it wants not a foot of Mexican territory, not a dollar of the money of Mexico, but that all it wants is to see peace and social order and good government established in an oppressed and distressed land.

A prophet is not without honor save in his own house and among his own people; and there are Europeanians who see no good in America, while they rave over king-ridden Europe. Yet the fact remains that in all that constitutes true national glory and greatness this western republic leads the procession of the nations, "the heir of all the ages in the foremost files of time."

EUROPE'S RESERVES IN UNITED STATES

Any combat at arms in Europe involving nations from which migration to the Americas is heavy, at once raises issues of loyalty and duty which immigrants meet differently. The recent wars between states in Southeastern Europe and the invasion of Tripoli by Italy, disclosed a positive degree of loyalty to the motherland on the part of many naturalized immigrants which led them to go back and enlist, self and pecuniary interests being subordinated to the sentiment of racial patriotism, says the Christian Science Monitor.

As for States, of course they responded to the summons in large numbers, so much so that in some of the larger manufacturing centers of the middle west where there are large colonies of former residents of the Austrian-Hungarian empire, the Balkan states, Greece and Turkey, the exodus lowered the supply of labor and reduced the volume of local business both on its producing and consuming sides. A repetition of this experience would have an education effect on the American public, teaching it how far-reaching are the disintegrating and disturbing effects of war. One million able bodied workers are said to be resident in the United States now, who are liable to a call for military duty in Europe. If any considerable proportion of them at any time were to respond to such a call, the economic effect would be such as to induce sober reflection by some persons not previously concerned with the contest.

How profound is the interest of a very considerable proportion of the population of the United States in the political evolution of nations in southern and southeastern Europe is not in our judgment understood by most leaders in domestic politics or by most journalists. Were this interest more accurately estimated much more space would be given, we believe, to news about those nations in their customary peaceable states of existence. Comment on this news also would be ampler and more intelligent.

DISORDER

(By George Matthew Adams)

Every person of sense knows what Disorder is. But it remains only for the rare and unusual folks to recognize Disorder by translating it immediately into smoothness on sight.

There is no disorder in the working of Nature, because Nature has a Master Mind to do its thinking for it.

You are greater and more wonderful than Nature because you are able to do your own thinking. But if you don't you cannot help but fall into confusion and Disorder.

Big people are masters of the trivial. They know what the little things mean—how great a part they play in the construction of the whole of affairs. But the ordinary fellow thinks that it's all time wasted to pay attention to the mass of details that edge their way into work and service. And so Disorder creeps in and gets bigger and bigger, spelling out in the end, either ordinary success or ignoble failure.

Disorder is easy to handle. It usually originates within the mind. So, therefore, the correct mental attitude has to be attained in order to drive Disorder out.

Be convinced that everything was made to run smoothly and you are half way to perfect. Then watch the little details and care for the small affairs that the average man usually passes by, and you will feel strength and courage and power accumulating.

And as you grow in power you are certain to put the right value to Order.

BOARD OF DEVELOPMENT
HAS IMPORTANT MEETING

Committee Report—Amarillo At Panama Exposition Discussed
Length.

The Amarillo Board of City Development held its regular semi-monthly session last evening with the majority of the members present.

Chairman E. W. Hardin, who has been absent from the city for several weeks, was present and presided at the meeting. A few of the members were out of the city on business.

Reports were made from a number of the departments. In the absence of Earl Cobb, chairman of the agricultural committee, Dr. M. W. Cunningham reported on the progress of the work of preparation for the Panhandle Farmers' Institute and Short Course.

He reported that perhaps 1,000 letters had been sent out by himself and Secretary Bensen and that programs had been generously distributed directly to the farmers.

It was also reported that a number of the Panhandle railways had offered free transportation to regularly elected representatives of the various farmers' institutes along their lines. The committee reported that the outlook is bright for a successful institute.

The secretary was instructed to learn when committees representing the board could meet with the county commissioners of Potter, Oldham, Randall and Armstrong counties to take up the matter of employing an agricultural demonstrator again for the coming year. The chairman was instructed to appoint the necessary committees later.

Director Sam B. Vaughn, of the highways committee, reported the following appointments on his committee: Miles Bivins and Charles H. Hoover.

He also reported that Frank A. White had represented his committee at the meeting of the Colorado-to-the-Gulf Highway Association, in session last week at Colorado Springs. A report of the meeting at Colorado Springs was also read.

Mr. White reported that with the exception of the bridge across the Canadian, the road is in good condition all the way from Fort Worth to Texline. This portion of the road is also supplied with guide posts, or markers, with distances, etc.

Chairman Lindsay Dunn, of the trade extension committee reported on the success of the trade excursion to Childress and the plans for the South Plains excursion on next Wednesday and Thursday.

The schedule of the coming trip will be announced within the next few days.

Mr. Childers, of the entertainment committee announced the names of J. L. Pope, H. C. Pipkin and Ray C. Johnson, as members of his committee, and announced the program of attractions that is being planned for the entertainment of the members of the Northwest Texas Press Association, who will be in Amarillo on Friday and Saturday of next week.

The program as outlined includes a visit to one of the moving picture theatres, an auto ride over the city and a luncheon at the Harvey House.

It is expected that some fifty editors and newspaper men will be here for this occasion and the members of the board are unanimous in their desire that every possible courtesy shall be shown to these newspaper representatives.

The matter of arranging entertainment for the visitors at the Panhandle Farmers' Institute and Short Course will be taken up later. Ford Brandenburg made a short report for the civic committee and brought up the matter of a better band for Amarillo, which was discussed at some length.

Director Seay, of the transportation committee made a short report. Chairman M. W. Cunningham, of the emigration committee announced the names of Tom Currie, H. M. Bainer and Mr. Smith as members of his committee.

A communication was read from S. B. Holman, of the industrial department of the Fort Worth Record, to the effect that he would be glad to give publicity to matters of importance to Amarillo and the Panhandle if arrangements are made to send him the necessary data.

A communication was also read from the Texas Commercial Secretaries Executive Association.

Mr. Wyman, a representative of the Panama exposition committee appointed by the governor and authorized by an act of the legislature was present and laid before the board in a general way the plans for the Texas exhibit at the exposition.

The Texas building will be 170x69 feet and of the same design as the state capital at Austin.

The exhibit plans include a moving picture show with 17,500 feet of film. It is proposed that Amarillo, as the principal city in one of the districts of the state shall be represented by 200 feet of film.

After a long discussion the board decided to endorse the plan and recommend it to our people, if they want to make voluntary subscriptions to cover the expense, but thought it would not be advisable at this time to meet this expense with public funds.

The board held a very long and busy session and discussed many matters of importance to Amarillo.

Alden Family Reunion. AUG. 8.—The fourteenth annual reunion of the Alden Kindred of America, composed of descendants of the famous John and Priscilla Alden, was held today at the old family homestead here. Many members were in attendance, among them being several from distant parts of the country. The proceedings included a report by the association president on the happenings at Southampton, England, last August, when the Pilgrim Memorial and Alden tablet were dedicated.

The Reason Why

—By HEATH

IN YEARS GONE BY, A WEEKS SUPPLY OF ICE COST BUT A DIME;

ROSTER ABOUT COMPLETE
FOR TRADE EXCURSION

South Plains Towns Are Being Notified Amarillo Is Coming A Hundred Strong.

Eighty-five names of firms and individuals have already been secured who will be represented on the trade excursion which will be run from Amarillo to the South Plains next week.

The various towns and cities along the line are being notified that Amarillo will be there 100 strong.

It is the intention to have a party of 100 or more, besides the band.

The effort was to secure a hundred people for the recent excursion to Childress and that number was surpassed. It is hoped that the same thing may be true again this time.

The excursion will leave Amarillo about 7:30 a. m., via traverse the South Plains as far as Lubbock during the first day, making stops at every town and city en route.

On the second day the train will proceed as far as Post City, and returning will reach Amarillo about 11 p. m.

Much sight seeing advertising and boasting will be crowded into the two days.

Below is a list of the live wires who have signed up for the excursion to date. The remaining fifteen names necessary to bring the number up to 100 should be in by tonight.

The committee requests us to ask that all who have not already done so mail in their checks at once.

BEWARE OF CALOMEL

—DON'T TAKE IT

Calomel is just another form of mercury, and you ought to know how unceremonial, how disagreeable in effect and how dangerous calomel sometimes is. Perhaps you know several people who have been salted by what they thought was a very light dose of calomel.

Next time you have an attack of biliousness, or when your liver has gotten sluggish, go to Amarillo Drug Store and ask for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic. You will find it a pleasant-tasting, vegetable, liquid remedy which takes the place of calomel in every good respect and without the dangerous after-effects of calomel.

Dodson's Liver Tonic gives the liver just the amount of gentle stimulation it needs to induce it to do its work properly and thoroughly. You get a large bottle for fifty cents and you can have your money returned right where you made your purchase if Dodson's Liver Tonic fails to please you and prove that it takes the place of calomel perfectly. Isn't that fair?

Stover Ensilage
Cutters

The Stover Cutter is built by the same people who build Samson Windmills, Stover Feed Mills, and Stover Engines. These people have a reputation for building good goods only and you may be sure that the Stover Ensilage cutter is up to the standard.

The cutter is of the cylinder type, mounted on an independent shaft which makes it possible to maintain a speed most satisfactory for cutting regardless of the height of silo and independent of the blower.

The Stover Cutter is the strongest and heaviest cutter on the market. It is built for capacity and durability. If you can we would be glad if you will call and see the one we have sampled on our floor. Catalog and prices on request.
